Laconia owns Axochitlan, Pumpkintown, Danville, Mt. Doom, K'lel (the Nether Island), the strip of land near Mt. Doom from a previous claims map, and any structures in the waters surrounding the area.

In addition, Goodsprings is sold to Laconia for 16 diamond blocks.

Yoahtlans may live in Goodsprings, Danville, Pumpkintown, and Axochitlan. Laconia may revoke this right on a per-player basis, however, if that player intentionally causes significant damages to Laconian players or property, as determined by Hallow. Laconia may allow other locations at their discretion, with the same removal condition. Bgbba, Wacky_Aki, and Quauhtli_Mia are disallowed rather than allowed by default due to warmongering. Players living in or visiting Laconian territory need to follow its laws and jurisdiction.

In the case of any dispute between Yoahtlan and Laconian players in the area, any of the involved members may call upon Hallow to solve it as they see fit.

No offensive military infrastructure intended to be used against the other party shall be constructed in or near Goodsprings, Danville, Pumpkintown, or Axochitlan. If in doubt, a Hallow official will determine the nature of the structure in question.

Access to the Great Overland Rail shall not be impeded, stopped, hindered, etc. by Laconia or Yoahtl in the +,+ . The Great Overland Rail shall not be expanded further into Laconian territory without their permission, and shall not be removed where it already exists.

bgbba's reparations and pearl time will be handled separately in the interests of time and separating bgbba from the negotiations. bgbba's sentence does not start until his reps in this treaty are paid.

Falvyu will be released immediately.

This agreement overrides both previous agreements.

Both parties will begin creating a Non-Aggression Pact between them.

Signed,

Feathercrown, Alcuahtl of Yoahtl
